

Historic site future still up in the air

Duncan McAllister

There is still no plan for developing the site of the First Parliament of Upper Canada in time for the war of 1812 bi-centennial, though many neighbourhood groups are pressing for it.

The Old Town Toronto Network now meet on the site of Ontario's First Parliament Buildings. OTTN spokesman Edward Nixon says, "April 14, 2011 was the first gathering of community, representing the foundation of local governance and democracy on the site since Dec. 30, 1824 when Ontario's Second Parliament Buildings

continued page 8